LETTERS FROM CHICKAMAUGA.CAMP THOMAS,
CHICKAMAUGA PARK, GA.
(Special to the Herald)

Sims—We arrived at the park Friday last but did not go into camp until Saturday noon. We camped on one of the hills Friday night with nothing but the stars over us and stones, and plenty of them under us. On Saturday morning we got orders to move at once to a place about three miles in the woods. It was hot, in fact, I never found it any hotter than it was that morning. We marched in heavy marching order, with about forty pounds on our back. When we arrived at the camp we had twenty men in the ranks, the rest of them had dropped and were all along the road but all came into camp before night.

Three days on the cars and then that march was beyond human endurance and if the boys had not been in first class condition they would have all dropped. Sunday the boys were all in good condition but at the present time the most of the boys are feeling the effects of the poor water and food. We can stand the water but the food is not fit to eat. The boys will not eat it and some of them are on the sick list, two in the hospital all on account of food. We have plenty of it, but corned beef and hard tack is not what they are used to. The climate has a great deal to do with it. Hot all the time. The nights are as hot here as the days were in New Hampshire when we left. Capt. Popo has been on the sick list ever since we arrived and he claims it is on account of the food. He cannot stand it and if it is not remedied at once there is liable to be trouble in the camp as there is about 40,000 troops in camp and all are making objections to the food. We have one pleasure and that is a river which flows through our camp and you can find from 100 to 1000 of the boys in swimming at any time of the day and until 9 p. m. at night. They are very strict here and the boys find they are not in camp at Concord now, guards around the camp day and night and no one allowed in through the lines unless they have on the U. S. uniform. After 10 p. m. there is no one allowed to pass. Following you will find the list of the times and places passed through from Concord to Chattanooga.

For Construction, N. H., May 26th, 1898.

To the Adjutant, General Marston Command, Union Veterans Union, Portsmouth, N. H.:

Sir—In reply to invitation extended my command to participate with the veterans of your organization in the formal observance of Memorial day, next Monday, I regret to state that Battery K, 2d U. S. artillery, will not be able to attend, but that the command from sub-post at Jerry's Point, consisting of Company C, 1st Infantry, Connecticut volunteers, Captain Linnecher, will turn out seventy-five strong, to do proper honor on the occasion.

Very respectfully,
EDWIN S. CURTIS,
Captain 2d Artillery, Comdg' Post.

INTERESTING EXERCISES AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

At the High school on Friday morning interesting exercises were held, which were appropriate to Memorial day. The schoolhouse was prettily decorated and many visitors were present to enjoy the entertainment. Principal Bartlett had arranged the following programme, every number of which was very well rendered:

Piano duet, Misses Cook and Newton
Semi-Chorus, "Flag of the Free,"
Misses Thompson, Woods, Foote,
Lewis, Simpson and Dupray.

Mandolin Solo, Miss Varnell
Chorus, "Forth to Battle," School
Vocal Solo, Miss Bertha Russel
Address, Rev. Curtis Hoyt Dickins
School

The attendance was good and the music very fine, while Rev. Curtis Hoyt Dickins gave an excellent and very patriotic address.

S. T. Young passed the day in Boston on business.

Mr. Edward Kimball is the guest of his parents in town for a few days.

Miss Laura Baddock is to pass Sunday and Monday in Manchester, the guest of friends.

Messrs. Frank Bickford, Walter Brown, Fred George and Merle Dearborn will leave today to pass Sunday and Memorial day in Boston.

The Latest Fad

Patriotism is running high just at present, and the latest fad is the small flag worn upon the white collar by both ladies and gentlemen. Watch people on the street and see how many are worn. They come ready gummed for use, and are stuck on like a postage stamp on an envelope. The fad has become so general that if it continues laundry men are apt to increase the price for doing up collars.

Helped by an Honest Doctor.

Determined to restore health to a man stricken with paralysis, the physician prescribed the remedy that has proved most powerful in such cases and effected a complete cure. A warning and a lesson for hard workers.

This is a plain, straightforward account of a farmer who worked too hard, who became helpless through a stroke of paralysis, but who had the good fortune to be attended by an honest doctor, who cured him by prescribing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

The farmer is William Simpson. His farm is near Ruby, Ind. Like thousands of other intelligent, hard-working men of his vocation he owns valuable property and is considered by his neighbors a well-to-do man.

Like thousands of others he worked through fair weather and foul to provide comfortably for his household.

Like thousands of others, on arriving at the age when the strain of toil should slacken up and rest begin, the grim enemy of paralysis clutched him.

His cure was so unexpected, so rapid and complete, that it is a neighborhood wonder.

"While gathering a heavy fall harvest," says "I worked early and late. My hired help left me and I finished the fall work alone, but the end of the harvest found me exhausted."

After treating me a week without any gain, my doctor became uneasy. He did something for which I can never thank him enough."

"He brought me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and told me they would do me more good than anything he knew of. He had used them with great success in a case similar to mine. The case in question was that of L. Phillips, of Pennsylvania."

"I took the boxes of the pills. I need not go over my gradual recovery in detail, but you must imagine my joy and relief when after two months of helpless life, I felt life and strength return day by day to my dead limbs. When I had taken the ninth box I was completely cured."

"I am half and hearty to-day, with no trace of my awful experience, and I give all the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They probably saved me from the grave."

Mr. Simpson, to give more strength to his story, made affidavit to its truth before Abner Norman, a Notary Public at Ruby.

The power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the vast number of diseases due to impure or poisoned blood or derangements of the nervous system, has been demonstrated in thousands of instances as remarkable as the one related above. No one who is suffering can rightly neglect this way to restore health.

Drugs everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

NOT SATISFIED WITH MERE RUMOR

No Departure of Troops to Cuba For Awhile.

Washington, May 28.—If Commodore Schley has trapped the Spanish fleet at Santiago de Cuba, it is almost as conceivable a victory as could have been expected from a naval engagement. The Spaniards' policy was to avoid an encounter, and it would have been difficult for any division of Vice-Admiral Sampson's fleet to have overtaken or captured them but now, if they are bottled up in Santiago and bottled at their own game, the future is not bright, and all that is now waited for is the order to prepare to protect the landing of our troops in Cuba.

Sampson's squadron left Key West, an intensely close watch has been kept for the Spanish fleet in spite of the fact that it was at the south of Cuba. Several false alarms have been given, the men on the lookout in the tops being so anxious to catch sight of the Spaniards that they would see five columns of smoke where only one was really discernible and that the smoke of Sampson's own boats.

The tension was naturally great. This was not caused by any feeling of doubt as to the result of a naval engagement, for Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet had been so active since it left Key West that the Spaniards would have been completely annihilated if they had counted on it.

The fleet as at present constituted will be Commodore Schley's command, and without the ships actually owned in the blockade forms the most powerful squadron ever gathered together by the United States navy. Then again, Commodore Schley's ships are fully able to defeat the Spanish force under Admiral Cervera, even under conditions favorable to the enemy, a state of things which is thought to exist at Santiago, as it would be more than probable for the Massachusetts, Texas and Iowa to sink the Vizcaya, Almirante Oquendo, Cristobal Colon and Maria Theresa if they attempted to flee out of the harbor.

An important phase of the military program is the war department's decision not to take up the details of organizing the new force of 35,000 volunteers for at least 2 weeks or 10 days. No conclusion has been reached as to whether a portion of the volunteers will be used to recruit the regiments still remaining unfilled under the first call for 25,000.

One of the main purposes of issuing the second call was to establish a second reserve, made up of men who could be called and equipped at leisure and called upon some months hence if circumstances required; but if 40,000 of them are put at once into the regiments of the first call, they will go to the front, and the second reserve will be reduced to about 35,000 men, or a little more than one-half the army corps.

The department is anxious to obtain knowledge of the governors of the states and territories in regard to filling to their maximum strength the regiments already furnished by them under the first call of the president. Adjutant General Corbin has sent telegrams asking several governors to make recommendations to the department on this subject.

A number of minor points coming constantly in relation to the second call for volunteers are being passed upon in a general way at this time. For instance the question arose as to whether colored officers, as well as colored troops, would be taken as a part of the organizations offered. General Alger decided that if a colored company had efficient colored officers they were as much entitled to recognition and acceptance in the military service as were the troops themselves. He made this known in a dispatch to the governor of Indiana, who had asked for information, and he stated the same thing to Representative Hull of Iowa, who has an organization of colored men with colored officers in his district. It has also developed that colored men are being considered for some of the staff appointments, and the surgeon general of the army has accepted a colored man as a surgeon, with the rank of captain. The colored surgeon will be assigned to a colored regiment, and colored troops and colored officers will be kept together as far as possible.

Events opened to send warships to Porto Rico from Martingue, but the offer was refused because of the confidence of the military that they could successfully repulse the American fleet. The Spaniards at San Juan declare that they will burn the city before they will surrender. It is impossible to ascertain which cable or cables the St. Louis cut.

A PROBABLE THEORY.

London, May 28.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Kingston says: "Despite the most energetic search the whereabouts of the Spanish Cape Verde squadron remains unknown to the country despite an heraldic and eight days, and when such power may be had, it will be exerted."

"In the present war," remarks The Post, "Spain must either be neutral or an ally of the United States, and if the Spaniards are our allies, to give us a land and comfort, these islands are open to attack by Spain as are any parts of our own territory."

"It is as true now as it was before our friends' diplomacy was abandoned," argues The Globe, "that war alone can bring its peace, but the hint is plainly given from Madrid that a very little of it may suffice."

WHAT BOSTON EDITORS SAY.

Boston, May 28.—The Advertiser says:

"The president, as well as the rest of the country, deserves a heraldic and eight days, and when such power may be had, it will be exerted."

"In the present war," remarks The Post, "Spain must either be neutral or an ally of the United States, and if the Spaniards are our allies, to give us a land and comfort, these islands are open to attack by Spain as are any parts of our own territory."

"It is as true now as it was before our friends' diplomacy was abandoned," argues The Globe, "that war alone can bring its peace, but the hint is plainly given from Madrid that a very little of it may suffice."

HIS VOTE BEAT HIM.

How the Invention of Telegraphy Led to a Congressman's Defeat.

Dr. Gatling, the gun man, is a relative of General Lew Wallace and tells the following story about the latter's father:

"David Wallace was a member of Congress, an Indiana Democrat, when S. P. Morse suggested the government to give him $10,000 for the purpose of building the first telegraph line from Baltimore to Washington. Wallace was a member of the committee to which the bill was referred, and it happened when the matter came up for consideration that he was absent. The vote in committee was a tie, and so Wallace was sent for. He voted to give the inventor the $10,000, and accordingly the bill went through."

"This happened along toward the end of Wallace's term, and when he went home to strive for reelection he found that the news concerning his action on the Morse telegraph appropriation had preceded him. A man named William Brown, who afterward became prominent in congress, had been nominated by the Democrats, and he was conducting a vigorous campaign.

"In those days just stamping votes were customary, and the two candidates went from place to place through the district, asking for the votes of the people. Brown's platform consisted of only one plank. That was the criminal record of his opponent."

"He would get up before a crowd of voters and ask them if they had heard how Wallace had voted to give $10,000 of the public money to a man who proposed to transmit messages by means of a wire between Baltimore and Washington. The ridiculousness of such a thing was so palpable that Wallace's action could not be considered as a mere mistake. It was clearly an outrage upon the people—a deliberate swindle."

"You may not believe," Brown was in the habit of concluding, "but you will vote with a stock of ammunition when we vote away the public funds for the transmission of such a condemned scheme, but the gentleman is here before you. Ask him if I have told the truth or not, and let him explain his action if he can."

"Wallace of course admitted that he had voted away the money, and he tried to explain what Morse proposed to do, but it was all in vain. His constituents made up their minds that he was either a fool or something worse, and he was therefore stoned and run out of the polls."

"It is gratifying to know that Wallace lived to see the telegraphical telegraph as an important factor in civilization, but I suppose there are people in that district who still think he was a fool and that he deserved beaten."—Chevalier Leader.

AARON DURR'S CHECK.

It is Probably the Oldest Bank Check in Existence.

In the Marion National Bank, in this city, the following check is on exhibition to the citizens of the city:

"To John Durry, for one hundred and fifty dollars in paper. New York, the second day of June, 1790."—Aaron Durry.

During the war Col. H. C. Towne was now superintendent of the national cemetery near Lebanon, but a command in the 1st U. S. Artillery. When the army was at Allerton Park Col. Towne was in command of a battery of the 1st U. S. Artillery on a foraging expedition. Among whom was visited by the detachment of soldiers was the plantation of Governor Brown. The residence was deserted, and in searching the house one of the soldiers found the original of the above check in Gov. Brown's library. He took it with him and on his return to camp presented it to Col. Towne, who carried it on his person during the rest of the war. When peace was proclaimed and Col. Towne returned to Wisconsin, he presented the check to the cashier of the bank in his native town, who had it framed and hung in the bank as a valuable relic. Subsequent photograph reproductions of the check were taken. Col. Towne was given the original of the check and the cashier of the bank was given a copy.

FLAG RAISING.

The Little Bowery association held a grand patriotic meeting and flag raising on the open lot near the Boston and Maine tracks on McDonough street on Friday evening.

Several hundred citizens with Mayor Tilton and several prominent city officials were present to assist in the demonstration.

The Portsmouth Flute and Drum corps furnished the music for the occasion and rendered a number of patriotic selections.

Ex Alderman George B. Wallace was the orator for the evening and delivered a most excellent and stirring address, which was received with numerous outbursts of applause.

At the conclusion of his speech a large flag, eight by sixteen feet, was unfurled to the breeze amid enthusiastic cheering, the popping of fire crackers and the band playing the Star Spangled Banner.

The flag was cheered again and again as was also Admiral Dewey and several other prominent men.

Mayor Tilton was called upon and made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion and after a few more selections by the band the meeting broke up.

PROBATE COURT.

The following was a part of the business transacted at the session of the probate court for Rockingham county:
